You Should Not Have to See This

From Monday, October 20th to Sunday, October 26th, 2025

On the occasion of Art Basel Paris, Galerie Poggi reaffirms its longstanding commitment to the Ukrainian art scene by presenting a series of four exhibitions devoted to Ukrainian artists, displayed in its two Parisian spaces along with the Grand Palais and the Chapelle de la Salpêtrière. This commitment is a continuation of a collaboration that began in 2018 with Nikita Kadan, now recognized as one of the leading figures in contemporary Ukrainian art.

This program focuses on Kasimir Malevitch, a pioneer of modernity and the Ukrainian avant-garde. Two rare drawings by the artist, titled Sensation of an Imprisoned Man and created in 1930-1931 during his incarceration by the Bolsheviks, will open the various exhibitions by Nikita Kadan, Danylo Halkin, and the duo Yarema Malashchuk and Roman Khimei, for whom this will be their first exhibition in France.

Nikita Kadan : A double exhibition at the gallery and the Grand Palais for Art Basel Paris

Following a landmark exhibition at Art Basel Miami Beach in 2022 in response to Russia's large-scale invasion of Ukraine, Galerie Poggi is now dedicating a fourth solo exhibition to Nikita Kadan at its main space at 135 rue Saint-Martin. Titled “Rubble Flowers,” this exhibition is organized in collaboration with Björn Geldhof, artistic director of the Pinchuk Art Center, who has been invited as curator. Alongside Nikita Kadan, the gallery presents a selection of works by Ukrainian artist and curator Danylo Halkin on the first floor.

Echoing this solo exhibition and in a strong political gesture, Galerie Poggi has invited the Ukrainian Voloshyn Gallery (Kyiv, Miami) to share a booth at Art Basel Paris at the Grand Palais, dedicated to Nikita Kadan.

Yarema Malashchuk and Roman Khimei : First solo exhibition in France

In the meantime, Galerie Poggi is particularly proud to present the first solo exhibition in France by Ukrainian artist duo Yarema Malashchuk and Roman Khimei. Their video work, widely recognized and acclaimed internationally, will be on display from October 21st to November 22nd, 2025, in the gallery's second space, located on Rue Beaubourg. Their installation “You Shouldn't Have to See This,” which attracted attention at the last Venice Biennale, will be presented exceptionally in the Chapelle de la Salpêtrière as part of the OFFSCREEN fair.

Born in Kyiv in 1982 and a major figure in the Ukrainian art scene, Nikita Kadan has become the voice and witness of the situation in Ukraine since the beginning of the war sparked by Russian forces in 2022.

He won the Pinchuk Art Centre Prize in 2011 and the Special Prize at the Future Generation Art Prize in 2014. In 2021, the Pinchuk Art Centre in Kyiv, Ukraine, is dedicating a major solo exhibition to him, continuing the initiative of MUMOK (Vienna, Austria), which hosted his first institutional and international solo exhibition in 2019. He participated in the Ukrainian Pavilion at the Venice Biennale in 2015, 2022, and 2024. He also took part in the Matter of Art Biennale in Prague in 2024. He was the subject of a major solo exhibition at the National Museum of Fine Arts of Ukraine in Kyiv titled “Siren Sickie Satellite” in 2025.

Born in Ukraine in 1993, Yarema Malashchuk and Roman Khimei have been working as a duo of artists and filmmakers since 2013. Their practice explores the legacies of history and representations of collective memory in a Europe ravaged by war and uncertainty.

Winners of the prestigious PinchukArtCenter Prize in 2020 and featured in numerous festivals and institutions across Europe, including the 14th Kaunas Biennial, the Kunstverein in Hanover, and the Venice Biennale, they develop work both poetic and political.

In 2026, the Thyssen Museum in Madrid will devote a major solo exhibition to them. Their work reflects a generation marked by the repetition of history but which seeks, in art, a force of resistance and transmission.

Born in 1985 in Dnipro, Ukraine, Danylo Halkin is a contemporary Ukrainian artist and curator who engages with public spaces through spatial installations, happenings, and site-specific art.

Danylo Halkin's paintings, installations, subject-oriented artworks, and other creations have been showcased in solo and group exhibitions in South Korea, Berlin, London, Bratislava, Prague, and Kyiv.

Danylo Halkin has received numerous awards and accolades, including the Grand Prix MUXI in 2011 and the Third Special PinchukArtCentre Prize in 2013).

INTERVIEWS BY APPOINTMENT

From October 13th to October 26th, 2025

Nikita Kadan Yarema Malashchuk and Danylo Halkin will be granted special permission to come to Paris for the installation and opening of the exhibitions and will be available for interviews and meetings from October 13th to 26th, 2025. Björn Geldhof will be in Paris from October 20th to 23rd.

Rubble Flowers

Nikita Kadan
The Monument, 2025
Charcoal on paper, 280 x 400 cm

Working with Nikita Kadan since 2018, the gallery is pleased to present Rubble Flowers, the Ukrainian artist's fourth solo exhibition at the gallery, as part of an autumn program dedicated to the contemporary Ukrainian scene. To highlight the importance of this project, the gallery has invited Björn Geldhof, director of the PinchukArtCenter and close collaborator of the artist with whom he has already carried out numerous projects, to curate it.

Prepared over several months in Kyiv, the exhibition occupies the entire 200 m² of the main gallery. It opens with an intimate gesture: Kadan's first painted self-portrait, with closed eyes, evoking a funeral mask. Surrounding it, a collection of personal objects (a photograph of Kyiv in flames, a fragment of rubble collected near the studio, a work by Tetyanich) establishes a direct link between the intimate, the place, and history in the making. From there, monumental drawings, paintings, and display cases unfold, where stones, rubble, and flowers become metaphors for a fragile humanity torn apart by war. The video installation Rubble Flower contrasts the serenity of Ukrainian landscapes with the sound of sirens and drones. The human figure, sometimes eroticized and then covered with rubble, collides with the violence of destruction.

The exhibition concludes with Monument, a large drawing inspired by Géricault, which transforms anonymous feet and hands into a poignant meditation on death and memory. Between the intimate and the collective, beauty and disaster, Rubble Flowers testifies to the power of Kadan's art to transform ruins into living memory.

Nikita KADAN
Rubble Flowers

In partnership with Voloshyn Gallery (Kyiv, Miami)

On the occasion of Art Basel Paris 2025, the gallery presents an exceptional project dedicated to Nikita Kadan, in collaboration with Voloshyn Gallery, one of the most active Ukrainian galleries on the international scene. Exiled in Miami since the outbreak of the war, where it has opened a major space, Voloshyn is joining forces with the gallery to defend Kadan's work in a powerful political and symbolic gesture.

The stand presents a collection of works including sculptures and works on paper, some of which have never been exhibited before. The exhibition centers around a monumental 4 x 3 meter charcoal drawing, Schekavytsia, which recently formed the highlight of a major monographic exhibition dedicated to the artist by the National Museum of Ukraine in Kyiv. Its title refers to a hill in the Ukrainian capital, a place where, according to popular rumor, residents should gather in the event of a Russian nuclear attack to participate in an orgy.

Through this macabre and impulsive narrative, Kadan highlights an unexpected dimension of war: its libidinal and irrational force. Inspired by Delacroix's The Death of Sardanapalus, Schekavytsia transposes the romantic drama into the present day, even quoting the frantic horse, to give shape to a contemporary vision of the apocalypse. This project, one of the highlights of the fair, affirms Kadan's central place in the European art scene.

GALERIE POGGI

From Wednesday, October 22nd to Saturday, December 20th, 2025

Danylo HALKIN
Selected Works

On the first floor, Galerie Poggi presents several works by Danylo Halkin, who questions and reconfigures the Soviet legacy.

Among them are paintings from the series Optical Prostheses (2022–2025). Drawing inspiration from Soviet decorative and applied arts, particularly the stained-glass windows of hospitals, military recruitment offices, and fire stations in the Dnipro region, Halkin develops a pictorial language rooted in the context of war.

His black-and-white paintings depict these windows against smoky skies, their surfaces marked by soot. Shattered by missile strikes or destroyed during decommunization efforts, these fragments are fixed on canvas, acquiring a new life and an artistic status they had never previously possessed.

Halkin’s practice also involves collaborations with national and municipal art institutions, aimed at highlighting the heritage of the Soviet era and fostering its reinterpretation and museification. Following Russia’s full-scale invasion of Ukraine, he initiated a project specifically devoted to Soviet stained glass, fragile witnesses of a past whose relevance remains urgent today.

By weaving together the aesthetics of the twentieth century with the brutality of the present, Danylo Halkin reflects on systems of power and offers a critical perspective on Soviet totalitarian art, reframing its meaning within contemporary reality.

Repetitions

Galerie Poggi is particularly proud to present the first exhibition in France by Ukrainian duo Yarema Malashchuk and Roman Khimei, winners of the 2020 PinchukArtCenter Prize.

Presented in its second space located behind the Centre Pompidou, Repetitions questions how history, far from clarifying the future, seems to endlessly replay its dramas. The exhibition consists of three installations: two in the gallery's cabinets and Dedicated, a monumental double-screen work dedicated to Ukrainian youth, displayed in the main hall. A rare drawing by Kasimir Malevitch, Sensation of an Imprisoned Man (1930/1931), opens the exhibition, recalling the tragic echo between past and present.

Following a highly acclaimed exhibition in Hanover in 2025, their participation in the Venice Biennale in 2024, and ahead of a major solo exhibition dedicated to them at the Thyssen Museum in Madrid in 2026, Malashchuk and Khimei continue their exploration of collective images in Paris, between memory and repetition, resistance and fragility.

You Shouldn’t Have to See This

As part of OFFSCREEN, from October 21st to 26th, 2025, the Chapelle de la Salpêtrière will host You Shouldn’t Have to See This, the first Paris presentation of the video installation by Yarema Malashchuk and Roman Khimei that made such a profound impression at the last Venice Biennale, in the PinchukArtCenter exhibition at the Palazzo Polignac.

Rebuilt in the same configuration as the one produced for the Kunstverein in Hanover, the work invites viewers into a moment that is both fragile and disturbing : sleeping children filmed in silence. Behind the apparent serenity, the installation evokes a tragedy : these Ukrainian children had been taken to Russia before being repatriated.

This artistic gesture, on the borderline between compassion and voyeurism, questions the representation of war crimes and the responsibility of images. As much a political statement as a work of art, You Shouldn't Have to See This confronts the viewer with an unbearable truth.
